WEED CASES WILL TEST CITY'S NEW ORDINANCE

G. D. Copeland Fined $25 by Mayor; Other Cases.

THREE HELD FOR THEFT OF J. J. CURL'S AUTO

John Butler in "The Chicken in the Case" at Police Headquarters.

George D. Copeland against whom an affidavit was filed last week by Health Commissioner C. M. Tobin charging him with permitting noxious weeds to grow on premises owned by him, was given a hearing in the mayor's court Friday. Copeland was arrested under an ordinance passed by the city council June 27. The defendant was represented by Attorney E. B. Durfee and Copeland & Thompson, while the prosecution was looked after by City Solicitor George T. Geran.

Motions to quash the affidavit and dismiss the case were overruled and Copeland was found guilty by the mayor and fined $25 and costs. A motion for a new trial was overruled and execution of judgment was suspended pending the filing of a bill of exceptions to take the case up. Several other affidavits of similar nature are pending and more affidavits for violation of the ordinance will probably be filed.

Murphy Pays $600, Freed.

T. J. Murphy, of No. 489 Cherry street, who was arrested Friday morning following a search at his home and the finding of over thirteen gallons of corn whisky, was arraigned before the mayor, Friday afternoon, to answer a charge of illegally possessing intoxicants. Murphy was taken under the Crabbe act; the affidavit bing sworn to by William F. Dooley, Columbus, a state inspector. Murphy entered a plea of guilty to the charge against him and was fined $500 and costs. He paid and was released.

Three for Auto Theft.

Chester Welty, Arnold Corbin and Frank Johnson, each in the neighborhood of twenty years, were held to the grand jury in the mayor's court this morning, after entering pleas of guilty to affidavits filed against them by L. E. Craig charging them with the theft of the Buick automobile of J. J. Curl, July 11. Their bonds were fixed at $1,000 each.

Welty was arrested at Bucyrus and in his confession he implicated Corbin and Johnson. Corbin was arrested here, Friday night, and Johnson was taken in custody while he was out fishing this morning. The automobile which they took was recovered a few days later, having been deserted in a ditch near Columbus.

"The Chicken in the Case."

W. C. Houpt filed an affidavit in the mayor's court, Friday evening, charging John Butler with receiving stolen property. The complainant asserts Butler is in possession of a chicken of the game variety that was stolen from him, the value being fixed at $25. Butler was arrested and arraigned this morning. He claimed he did not know the chicken was stolen and entered a plea of not guilty. He will have a hearing later and in the meantime another arrest will be made in connection with the case.

Fined $25, Steals Bike.

Alva Orr, who pleaded guilty in the mayor's court, Friday afternoon, to stealing the bicycle of Joseph Pickett, was fined $25 and costs by the mayor. Friends of Orr paid his fine and he was released.

J. W. Reading Fined $10.

John W. Reading, arrested Thursday evening on a charge of driving his automobile while under the influence of liquor, was given a hearing before the mayor, Friday afternoon. Reading entered a plea of guilty to being intoxicated, but stated he had not driven the machine. The mayor let him off with a fine of $10.

H. J. Kirk, division engineer of the state highway department, was in Marion, Friday on business in connection with state highways.

PENNSYLVANIA TRAIN ROBBED

the hold, the conductor ran to a nearby railroad telephone and notified the railroad offices at Altoona and every bit of Pennsylvania railroad and Blair county police machinery was set in motion to trail the bandits.

None of the passengers was molested and they did not know that a holdup had taken place until after the engineer had applied the emergency brakes.

Several hours after the robbery an empty mail sack which had been rifled was found near the scene of the holdup, the conductor ran to a will take several weeks for government inspectors to trace missing letters and the amount they contained.

The scene of the robbery is isolated and in a mountainous section and afforded a splendid opportunity for a train robbery.

POLITICIANS AS COMEDIANS

With Whole Broad Atlantic as Their Stage.

LONDON COMMENT ON NORTHCLIFFE CLASH

Daily Herald Finds British Leaders Producing an Amusing Bit of Low Comedy.

London, July 30.—Lord Stamfordham, private secretary to King George, late today sent the following cablegram to Lord Northcliffe in the United States:

"His majesty is glad your message confirms the premier's authorized statement in the house of commons."

The above cablegram was in reply to one sent yesterday by Lord Northcliffe in which he denied that he had made the statements attributed to him in a New York interview.

Given Much Space.

London, July 30.—All the morning papers devoted much space to the controversy between the Lloyd George administration and Lord Northcliffe. Long cablegrams were printed from Washington, where Lord Northcliffe is now visiting. The Daily Herald, organ of the labor party, refused to attach any importance to the quarrel.

"It is the most amusing piece of low comedy that British politics has produced for a long time," said the Daily Herald. "Two of our greatest demagogues have turned back-chat comedians with the whole broad Atlantic as their stage. Northcliffe denies what he said. What if he did or what if he did not, it does not make any difference either way."

He Slips Away.

New York, July 30.—Lord Northcliffe, whose controversy with Lloyd George is reverberating through two continents slipped away from all the clamor and furore here, today and sought the golf links. The British publisher left H. Wickham Steed, editor of the London Times, behind to do all the talking for him. Mr. Steed was quite willing to talk, but he said that before he did so to any great extent he wanted to interview the reporter for a New York newspaper who interviewed him a few days ago.

Mr. Steed intimated that it would be a warm session. In the interview he was quoted as saying that King George had said to Lloyd George, "you must stop killing my people," referring to Ireland. And that was the cause of all this trouble, Mr. Steed said today.

"Are you going to make a statement on the matter," the editor was asked.

"Am I?" countered Mr. Steed. "As you Americans say, 'I'll say I am!' But I want to see that reporter first. I am waiting to hear from them now." "Them" referring to the New York paper.

The utterances attributed to the king have created "no end of a row." King George denied them; Lloyd George denied them, the premier addressed the house of commons on them and "there is the devil to pay generally."

Steed said, today, he did not know where his chief—Lord Northcliffe—had gone except that he had departed for a round of golf "with an old friend."

Northcliffe and Steed returned to New York early today, from Washington, where they met the socially elite at the capital at a dinner tendered by Mrs. E. B. McLean. This dinner took the place of one that had been planned at the British embassy, but which was cancelled at the last moment, Northcliffe says, on the orders of Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary.

TWO COMPANIES OF TROOPS ON GUARD

Sent to Bellows Falls, Vermont, To End Rioting.

Bellows Falls, Vermont, July 30.—Two companies of National guard troops arrived here, today, to maintain order following rioting in which shots were fired, presumably by striking workers of the International Paper company mills.

The rioting started, according to State's Attorney Whitney, when eleven shots were fired from the North Walpole, New Hampshire, shore of the Connecticut river into a strikebreakers' camp on the Vermont side.

A riot call was sent to Rutland and Adjutant General Herbert Johnson ordered out I company, of Brattleboro and A company of Rutland. The men were loaded into motor trucks and rushed to Bellows Falls where they began the work of policing the town. Trouble has appeared inevitable since the beginning of the strike. Several minor disturbances occurred when attempts were made to import strikebreakers.

Italy Is Opposed.

Rome, July 30.—Italy is opposed to the French proposal that more allied troops be sent into Upper Silesia Foreign Minister Della Torretta told the chamber of deputies today.

THE MAN WHO BUILT THE EIFFEL TOWER IN PARIS

An exceedingly rare photograph is this one, because it pictures the man who built the Eiffel tower. Pictures of Mr Eiffel are every rare. Indeed. The photograph was made on top of the famous tower he built in Paris during a dinner tendered by him to the wireless engineers of the United States. It shows the venerable inventor and engineer (at left) shaking hands with Mr. Swasey, the president of the Wireless Engineers of America.

BODY OF STONE NOT RECOVERED

Rescue Party Fails in Search in Mountains.

BETTER EQUIPPED PARTY TO BE SENT

Mrs. Stone Still at Improvised Camp at Base of Mt. Eanon. Is Recovering.

Banff, Alberta, July 30.—Search for the body of Dr. W. E. Stone, president of Purdue university, LaFayette, Indiana, who was killed, July 16, in a fall from a cliff while attempting to climb Mount Eanon, has proved unavailing, according to reports brought here from the rescue party. The searchers, it is reported, are becoming exhausted, and it is probable that another and better equipped party will be sent out to seek the body of the Indiana educator.

Mrs. Stone who was with her husband when the accident occurred and who spent five days without food on a narrow ledge of a rock, is still at an improvised camp near the base of Mount Fanon. Preparations are being made to bring her to Banff.

Because of the nature of the trail to Banff and the condition of Mrs. Stone, the journey will be an arduous one. The distance is fifty-five miles and except for a short stretch across Marvel lake, must be made on foot or by pack horse. The trail runs through unusually rugged country crossing many abysses and ascending many precipitous slopes. The doctor in attendance upon Mrs Stone believes she is now out of danger, but it will be necessary to carry her by stretcher from the camp to Banff, because of her weakened condition.

WELL SATISFIED WITH EXPERIENCE

Miss Folsom Gives Her Religious Faith Practical Test.

Denver, July 30.—Miss E. Folsom, landscape painter and daughter of a prominent Boston, Massachusetts, family, is back in her comfortable suite at a local hotel, today, after spending a lonely night on the "top of the world" to test her faith in a new religion. Miss Folsom, accustomed to a life of luxury, slept in an old deserted house at Corona, Colorado, 11,600 feet above sea level, with a door for a bed and only a tattered quilt for a covering. Mountain peaks nearby were white with snow.

Miss Folsom declared her purpose in spending the night in the open was to establish to her own satisfaction that if one has "complete faith," no harm can befall through the agency of either man or creature. She said, today, that she was entirely satisfied with her experience, despite the fact that she was disturbed throughout the night with wild cries of men in a nearby house, who she believed were trying to frighten her.

Held for Murder.

Pikeville, Kentucky, July 30.—A waitress in a hotel here, believed to be Maud Moore, wanted in Knoxville, Tennessee, for murder, is under arrest.

THE WEATHER FOR THE COMING WEEK

Washington, July 30.—The weather bureau, today, issued the following forecasts for the period, August 1 to 6, 1921, inclusive:

Ohio Valley and Region of Great Lakes—Outlook is for generally fair weather with temperature [illegible] slightly below normal during the coming week.

CAPTAIN HOLDING HIS SHIP OUTSIDE

Will Land Shipload of Greeks August 1.

New York, July 30.—Just outside the three-mile limit, where cooling breezes blow and clinking glasses need never be empty, 130 American citizens, passengers aboard the Greek liner, Megalibellas, fumed and fretted and got themselves all hot under the collar, today, to no effect.

The skipper, wise to the new immigration law, just won't bring his ship in until the first of the month.

Greece has reached her quota of immigrants for July. But Captain Kayapis knows that if he can delay his arrival until August 1, he can land all of his Greeks under the August quota.

The American citizens among his passengers claim that this business of Greek meeting an emergency is all very well, but they want to go ashore. Wireless bombardment of Ellis Island and Washington had proved futile. Authorities say it is up to the line, so Captain Kayapis swings in his hammock and lets them rave.

BRITISH GENERALS SURRENDER TO COURT

Must Answer for Ignoring Orders in Sinn Fein Cases.

Dublin, July 30.—General Sir Neville Macready, commander-in-chief of the British troops in Ireland General Cameron and General Strickland, for whom a supreme court writ was issued yesterday, surrendered to the court, today. Simultaneously, the court ordered the release of two Sinn Fein prisoners who were under death sentence pending an appeal of their case.

The writ calling for the appearance or arrest of the three British officers grew out of habeas corpus proceedings in behalf of the Sinn Feiners. The Sinn Feiners had been ordered produced, but the military authorities failed to obey the court order.

PRESIDENT OBREGON MORE THAN PLEASED

Regards Situation with United States "Good."

Mexico City, July 30.—President Obregon stated that he considered the international situation with the United States as "good," adding that there never will be any conflict with a foreign government so long as Mexico complies with its foreign obligations as she is now doing.

The railroad situation is again becoming threatening and the workers on the National lines are talking of a strike as a result of the government's stand on wage reduction. President Obregon declared that the government will sustain the railway company in its plans to lower wages as economy is necessary. The operation of the National lines is costing 1,000,000 pesos a month, which is creating a big deficit.

Truck Overturned.

Akron, July 30.—An auto truck owned by the Big Four Transfer company of Columbus and driven by Charles Gill, white, carrying a party of eight colored people all of Columbus, on a blackberrying trip to a point east of here, overturned down a ten foot embankment, at noon today, when the driver went to sleep. Mrs. Lutie Franklin, Columbus, sustained a broken thigh bone, broken arm and internal injuries. Mrs. Lucy Stewart, back injured. Others bruised and cut.

Wages Are Cut.

Uniontown, Pennsylvania, July 30.—Forty thousand workers of the H. C. Frick Coke company, the largest producer of coke in the world, were affected by a ten-per-cent. wage cut which went into effect at noon today. The reduction puts wages back to approximately the 1916 scale. The wages of independent operators already have been reduced. The action today, foreshadows a general resumption of coke making, experts belie

AMERICANS TO BE RELEASED

Soviet Russia Will Give Them Liberty at Once.

AMERICAN AID IS PROMISED RUSSIA

Announcement Made by Official Representative of Government at Moscow.

Washington, July 30.—The state department, this afternoon, received a communication from soviet Russia in reply to the note sent by the United States demanding the release of Americans now held in Russia.

The state department declined to make public the text of the communication at this time, or to comment upon it.

In view of foreign dispatches, it is understood that the communication contains announcements of the willingness of soviet Russia to release Americans held in Russia in exchange for American famine aid.

The state department's demand upon Russia was made in a note delivered early this week. It was the first direct demand made upon the soviet government by the United States, negotiations for the release of the Americans having previously made through Scandinavian authorities.

The note of the United States, although not made public, is understood to have been insistent in its tone and a clear statement that there could be no famine aid for Russia from the United States while Americans were held by the soviet authorities.

[BY MARK WATSON]

[Copyright, 1921, by Baltimore Sun]

Riga, July 30.—Mrs Marguerite E. Harrison, of Baltimore, has been freed by the soviet government in Russia. Her release was secured by United States Senator Joseph Irwin France, of Maryland. Mrs Harrison and Senator France have arrived here from Russia. Both are well. Mrs. Harrison has lost weight since her imprisonment in Russia, but is very cheerful. Senator France said that he had great difficulty in prevailing upon the soviet government to release Mrs Harrison.

[Mrs. Harrison has been a prisoner in Russia since October of last year. She had entered Russia the previous February and for a time was popular in that country and sent many despatches. They ceased early in October. Senator France went to Russia to investigate at first hand in that country. He had some difficulty in securing permission to enter and it was made part of the permit that he should not attempt to see or communicate with any of the American prisoners. The Sun's staff correspondent, who accompanied Senator France to Europe, was not permitted to enter Russia with the senator.]

To Be Released.

Riga, July 30.—Americans held prisoner in soviet Russia will be immediately released in exchange for American aid in combating the famine and disease epidemic now prevalent throughout Russia, according to an announcement here, today, by the official representative of the Moscow government.

The official stated that the "terms" proposed by Secretary of Commerce Hoover had been accepted by his government. Hoover recently replied to a Moscow appeal for aid by stating that the United States could do nothing for soviet Russia so long as Americans were imprisoned in Russia.

Washington is being asked to send representatives to Riga, Reval or Moscow immediately, to make arrangements for relief.

France at Riga.

Riga, July 30.—United States Senator Joseph France, who went into soviet Russia to study conditions at close range, arrived here, today, from Moscow. The senator looked tired and said he was much fatigued from his journey. He said he would not give an interview until he had rested. He admitted, however, that he had talked with Lenine and said Lenine is anxious to secure American trade.

The state department had no confirmation of the Riga reports that American prisoners will be released.

Action of relief measures will await receipt of official notification of the terms laid down by Secretary of Commerce Hoover. It was said and there probably will be no definite steps taken until the Americans now held in Russia have actually been released.

It was pointed out that in order that relief work may be sufficiently carried out in Russia, the American Relief society must have definite assurances that other conditions laid down by Secretary Hoover will be compiled with. The relief society also demands the exclusive right of determining whether the relief work shall be done and to whom relief rations shall be issued with assurances of safety for relief workers and adequate transportation facilities.

As soon as made satisfactory reply the relief society will determine how much of an appropriation shall be made for Russian relief, workers will be recruited and ships will be loaded with food and medicinal supplies for Russia.

CHICAGO OPENS BIG EXHIBITION TODAY

Greatest Venture Since the World's Fair.

Chicago, July 30.—The "Pageant of Progress," the greatest exhibition undertaken in Chicago since the World's fair, more than twenty-five years ago, was formally opened today. It will be open until August 14 and thousands of visitors from all parts of the country are expected to attend.

Designed chiefly as a commercial exhibit, the "Pageant of Progress" has assembled an attractive display along the entire length of the municipal pier, which will house the exposition. The pageant marks an effort by Chicago business men to counteract existing reaction in commerce and industry.

Throughout the duration of the exposition, various entertainment features will be staged.

DEPOSITORS RUSH A BOSTON BANK

Riotous Scenes Accompany Run of Frenzied People.

Boston, July 30.—In probably the most riotous scene witnessed here since Charles Ponzi's crash, depositors of the Boston Five Cents Savings bank, today, ran wild in the streets outside the institution. Screams, curses and demands in broken English and several foreign tongues rent the air as hundreds of frenzied men and women struggled to enter the bank to withdraw their savings.

"The run" on the bank began yesterday, following circulation of a rumor that the bank was in difficulty.

A good bluff is often more effective than a bad act.

CHARGES MADE AGAINST BLACK

Former Mayor of Columbus Defendant in Suit.

BLACKMAIL AMONG MANY ALLEGATIONS

Lakin C. Taylor Claims He Is Swindled Out of a Million in Stock and Much Cash.

Marietta, July 30.—Sensational charges are made against Samuel L. Black, president of the Pittsburgh Tin Plate & Steel corporation, former judge of the Franklin county probate court and one time mayor of Columbus, in a suit filed here, today, by Lakin C. Taylor, deposed president of the corporation.

Taylor, who was recently released from a sanitarium for mental treatment in Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, charges that Black not only swindled him out of $1,100,000 in preferred and common stock of the steel corportaion, but through false representations prevailed upon the plaintiff, while mentally unsound, to turn over to him $11,700. Taylor further charges that Black secured possession of his personal property, including his private papers and letters.

Blackmail also is named among the numerous allegations in Taylor's petition. He says Black threatened him with warrants and criminal charges, should he enter Ohio to file charges contained in the petition. Taylor charges that Judge Black conspired against him with the district attorney to secure his conviction on charges of misrepresentation in advertising stocks of the steel corporation, while acting as his attorney.

Taylor was committed to an asylum as being of an unsound mind, as a result of the charges, some time ago. He alleges that Judge Black, while serving as his counsel, protested against Taylor's liberation from the sanitarium.

Taylor asserts that by using proxies and assignments of stock, the property of Taylor, Judge Black caused himself to be elected president of the corporation and is now enjoying salary and profits rightfully belonging to the plaintiff.

Judge Thomas granted Taylor a temporary restraining order, enjoining the defendant from transferring, secreting or encumbering the stock in question. Hearing on the permanency of this order was set for next Friday morning.

Black, according to the petition, took advantage of Taylor's condition and threats of creditors to attach his property to induce Taylor to transfer his property.

In addition to Judge Black, the plaintiff names A. W. Stump, Frank Zerillo, A. V. Summers and the Pittsburgh Tin Plate corporation. Horace Neff, Cleveland attorney, represents Taylor, who is still in Pennsylvania.

FIRE HAZARD IS TOO GREAT

Governor Finds State Institutions Are Neglected.

IMMEDIATE SURVEY OF SITUATION ORDERED

Davis Says Wards of State Are Not Given Proper Protection from Fire in Institutions.

Columbus, July 30.—Alarmed by a condition which, he declares, indicates "deplorable neglect", in providing fire protection at state institutions, Governor Harry L. Davis, today, ordered an immediate survey "with a view of ascertaining what improvements and equipment are needed to safeguard them against fire hazards and the amount of money needed therefor."

In his statements, he declares that there is little provision for fighting fires effectively at most of the institutions and that "some of them are literally fire traps." The statement continues:

"The institutions house many thousands of state wards—men, women and children—large numbers of them helpless.

"There is little question that a serious fire in some of them may mean a heavy property loss and cause the loss of many lives.

"The constant danger to life is the most serious aspect of present conditions. The loss of valuable state property without protection presents another one.

"It is a foregone conclusion that the people of Ohio condemn such conditions.

"It is pointed out that some previous efforts to provide fire protection at these institutions failed because of lack of funds. I believe that it is imperative in the cause of humanity that these conditions be remedied as quickly as possible and that funds which will be necessary will be provided for somehow.

"In view of this, I am asking an immediate comprehensive survey be made of all state institutions with a view to ascertaining what improvements and equipment are necessary to safeguard them against fire hazards and the amount of money needed therefor."

ARGUMENTS IN SCANDAL TRIAL

Interrupted by "Pageant of Progress" in Chicago.

BLASTS OF NOISE STOPS PROCEEDINGS

"Black Sox" Are Confident of Acquittal and Plan for Tour of the Country.

Chicago, July 30.—The principals and chorus of the "Black Sox" baseball scandal trial had just come on the stage for the last act, today when the gallery broke loose in bombastic heckling.

Assistant State's Attorney Edward Prindiville, singing the leading role, arose in Judge Hugh M. Friend's courtroom to argue for the state.

"Gentlemen of the jury," began Prindiville. Then the din broke loose with all the fury of Jove's thunderbolts. Mr Prindiville tried again and again, but to no avail.

"If you would throw away your hammer and get a horn, you could be heard," shouted Attorney Benedict Short, of the defense counsel.

The blast of noise continued—bells, horns, whistles and bombs combining in a gigantic and continuous roar. It was the opening of Chicago's "Pageant of Progress."

Judge Friend had to suspend court until the formal opening of the pageant was over.

Mr. Prindiville then resumed the arguments begun yesterday.

It is expected that Henry Berger will open arguments for the defense this afternoon, but there has been a rumor that the defense would dispense with closing arguments.

Already the "Black Sox" are so confident of an acquittal that they are planning a barnstorming tour to vindicate themselves. They organized a team in court, this morning, with Eddie Cicotte, former star White Sox pitcher, as captain. Plans are being made to ask Charles Comiskey for permission to use the White Sox park for the opening. "Buck" Weaver, who expects to be reinstated in the big league, was the only one who would not join the team.

"We don't have to show that games were thrown," said Mr. Prindiville, resuming his arguments to the jury today. "That money was paid to some ball players or that some gamblers had some bets, but all we have to do is to produce for your benefit evidence of an attempt to obtain money from the public generally by false pretenses. We don't even have to show that the false pretenses were made and we do not have to show that they gained the confidence of their victims.

"There is only one thing, gentlemen, necessary for us to do and that is show that a conspiracy was entered into, then the trial is complete. So far as the passing of money is concerned, however, Jackson, Williams and Cicotte have admitted that they got money. Do you thing for one minute that the rest of these defendant players received none?"

MT. VICTORY PHYSICIAN STRIKES PASTOR, FINED

Sequel to Argument Over Enforcement of Prohibition.

Dr. J. J. Boone, physician at Mt. Victory, was arrested Friday on a charge of assault and battery sworn out late yesterday by Rev. Addyman Smith, also of Mt. Victory. Boone pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $25 and costs.

It is said that the two men, both prominent citizens of the little town, became angry after a heated discussion on prohibition enforcement near the town pump Thursday afternoon and that Boone beat the minister with a stick. It is said also that Rev. Mr. Smith drenched the doctor with a three-gallon bucket of water.

Dr. Boone went to Kenton immediately after the affair and surrendered to police only to find that a warrant for his arrest had not yet been sworn out.

NINE SKELETONS ARE UNEARTHED BY DITCHERS

Bones Found Near Mt. Victory Those of Indiana.

Nine skeletons, supposedly those of Indians, were unearthed Wednesday on the John Jolliff farm, near Mt. Victory, when workmen began digging a shallow ditch for water pipe. Eight of the skeletons were found buried in a single grave and the other was found in adjoining ground through which the ditch was being sunk.

When air struck the skeletons, the bones crumbled into dust. The teeth of all were well preserved.

BASEBALL

The Wrong Understanding.

When Manager James Cousins, of the Kenton baseball team, learned that the game he had scheduled with Marion for Sunday, was not with the Daily Stars, he at once cancelled the game. According to the Kenton News-Republican, Cousins was under the impression that he booked the Daily Stars and they were advertising the contest as the feature attraction of the season. The management of the Daily Stars informed Cousins of the error and the cancellation resulted with some local team.

AN UNUSUAL MUSICAL TREAT AT CHAUTAUQUA

Chicago Operatic Company of Six Artists Features.

MUSICIANS APPEAR IN AFTERNOON AND EVENING

Large Audiences Upon Both Occasions Are Delighted with the Offerings.

Chautauqua patrons and Marion music lovers were given an unusual musical treat Friday evening at the Marion County Chautauqua at Garfield park when the Chicago Operatic company furnished a full program. One hour and forty-five minutes of vocal and instrumental music furnished a most entertaining program for a large Chautauqua audience.

Each of the six members of the company, four vocalists, a violinist and a pianist, is a thorough artist and the various numbers were warmly received. The musicians generously responded with ten encores.

Members of the company are Miss Helen Allyn, soprano, Miss Jane MacConnell, contralto; John B. Miller, tenor; G. Magnus Schutz baritone, Miss Anah Webb, violinist, and Edgar Nelson, pianist.

The program was opened with a number by the quartet, Rigoletto, by Verdi. As an encore the members sang "Sweet and Low." The second number was a duet from Lakme, by Delibes, by Misses Allyn and MacConnell.

For the third number Mr. Miller sang two negro spirituals, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," by Berleig, and "De Ole Ark's a Moverin." As an encore he sang another negro number, "My Little Banjo."

Beautiful Violin Number.

"Souvenir de Moscow," by Wieniewski, a beautiful violin number with numerous difficult trills chords, harmonics and combinations of trills and chords, was perfectly played by Miss Webb. The large audience roundly applauded her playing and she responded with two excellently rendered encores.

Miss Allyn won the audience with her presentation of the aria from La Traviata, by Verdi. Her encore for this number was "At Dawning," by Cadman.

In announcing the next number Mr. Schutz explained that all of the singers held solo positions in leading Chicago churches. The number was "Sanctus," a beautiful number from one of Gounod's masses.

Mr. Nelson played the Nocturne in C minor, by Chopin, and his playing highly pleased. As an encore he played "Rigadoon," by Grieg. Mr. Nelson played the accompaniment for all the vocal numbers and also acted as accompanist for the violin numbers by Miss Webb and his playing was faultless.

The aria from "The Hugenots," by Meyerbeer, by Miss MacConnell was the next vocal number. Her singing so highly pleased that the audience demanded two encores. For the first encore she sang "A Little Silver Ring," by Chaminade, and the second was "Annie Laurie."

Miss Allyn sang an aria as the first part of the next number and this was followed by the presentation of the tower scene from Il Trovatore by Miss Allyn and Mr. Miller.

A baritone selection the Vulcan song from Philemon and Baucis, by Gounod, was sung by Mr. Schutz. His rich baritone was so pleasing that the audience demanded two encores. The first was a comic sailor song, "Three for Jack," and an Irish comic, "Kitty O'Toole." The closing number was the quartet arrangement of the sextet from Lucia.

Friday Afternoon.

The Chicago Operatic company, made its initial appearance at the Chautauqua pavilion Friday afternoon, giving a full-afternoon program.

That the audience was delighted was shown by the hearty applause accorded each member as he or she appeared in individual numbers, or in quartet or duet selections.

The program was opened with a quartet number "The Spirit of Spring" from a song cycle "The Morning of the Year," by Charles Wakefield Cadman. In this song the voices of the singers blended beautifully and their splendid singing of the quartet number gave a good indication of a treat to follow. For an encore they sang "Come All Ye Lads and Lassies," by Lane Wilson.

From "Madam Butterfly."

Miss Allyn and Miss MacConnell sang a duet from the opera, "Madam Butterfly," which was very well given and one of the most enjoyable numbers on the program. Miss Allyn has a sweet voice of clear and beautiful tones and Miss MacConnell's voice is rich and full of melody. These charming young women responded to an encore with "Barcarolle," Offenbach.

Mr. Miller, in a clear tenor voice of strength and beauty, sang "Then You'll Remember Me," from "The Bohemian Girl." This solo so delighted the people that their applause brought an encore, "I'se Going Back to Dixie," by Stephen Foster.

A violin solo by Miss Webb followed and she gave the audience a treat by playing "Ballade Ponlanise" by Vieuxtemps, and her encore "Orientale," by Cui. Both of these selections were exceptionally played with a flowing richness of sound, giving an insight into the violinist's own understanding of music.

Responds to Encore.

Miss MacConnell pleased greatly with her solo, "By the Waters of Minnetonka," and she received much applause, to which she responded with "Deep River," by Harry Burligh.

Another pleasing number of the afternoon was a duet by Mr. Miller and Miss Allyn, "May," from the song cycle, "The Morning of the Year," by Cadman. This was followed by Mr. Nelson who gave a splendid rendition of Tschaikowsky's "Meditation," and as an encore, "Praeludium," from the Holberg suite, by Grieg. He played very well, his technic being good.

In a voice, deep and rich and full of power, Mr. Schutz delighted the audience with "My Self When Young," from "The Persian Garden," by Lehmann, and in response to the hearty applause accorded him, he sang "The Little Woman," by Osborne.

After Miss Allyn had sung in a charming way "The Bird Song," from "Pagliacci," by Leoncavallo, and her encore number, "Macushla," the quartet gave as a finale to a very pleasing afternoon's musicale, "The King's Prayer," from Wagner's "Lohengrin."

This Chautauqua number, for which Mrs. Daisy Freeman Asman has been preparing all week, will be staged by the young people of Marion and Mr. Llewelyn stated it would consume about forty-five minutes. He requested that all groups taking part in the program report at the Chautauqua grounds promptly at 6:30 o'clock this evening.

The second part of this evening's program will consist of a postlude by the Garner Jubilee Concert company, which gave a full program this afternoon.

$12,000 MORAN VERDICT AGAINST ERIE REVERSED

But Appellate Judges Pass It on to Supreme Court.

WIDOW OF MAN KILLED HAD SUED FOR $50,000

Case's Reversal Based on Decision of Eighth District Court of Appeals.

Judgment of the lower court in the case fo Walter D. Hines, as director general of railroads, plaintiff-in-error, against Bertha R. Moran, as administratrix of the estate of Francis J. Moran, defendant-in-error, today was reversed by the court of apepals and the case remanded for further proceedings.

At the same time the court of appeals certified the record of the case to the supreme court for review and final determination.

Mrs. Moran sued for $50,000 in the common pleas court July 3, 1919, for the death of Francis J. Moran, who was killed February 18, 1918, while working as a switchman in the Erie yards. The case was tried before Judge Grant E. Mouser and March 25, 1920, a jury returned a verdict of $12,000 for the plaintiff.

It Finds Error.

In its finding the court of appeals stated that it found error in that the verdict and judgment are contrary to law, there being no evidence of negligence on the part of the defendant. At the trial of the case it was brought out in the testimony that there were no eye witnesses to the accident. For that reason, the trial court followed law as outlined by the court of appeals of the eighth district in a smaller case.

In the entry certifying the record to the supreme court the court of appeals cites the judgment of the court of appeals of the eighth district on the question, differs with this judgment and sends the case to the higher court for final determination. The entry reads:

Precedent Cited.

"The judges of the court of appeals hereby find that the judgment upon which they have agreed in the above entitled cause is in conflict with a judgment pronounced upon the same question by another court of appeals of the state, namely, the court of appeals of the eighth district, in the case of N. Y. C. & St. L. Railway against Pugh, in Cuyahoga county, decided February 7, 1919.

"Wherefore the record of the above entitled cause of Walker D. Hines, director general of railroads, plaintiff-in-error, against Bertha R. Moran, as administratrix of the estate of Francis J. Moran, deceased, defendant-in-error, is hereby certified to the supreme court of Ohio for review and final determination."

The swine will average a bit better than 200 pounds and nearly alike in size and color. These same people have 112 spring shoats soon to be put on full feed for late fall marketing.

Mrs. James Dow, Miss Marguerite Snyder and Charles Anderson, of the Uhler-Phillips company, expect to leave Sunday on a buying trip to New York City. Mrs. E. K. Uhler will accompany the party for a visit in the metropolis.

BE A BULL ON UNITED STATES.

Many men have poked fun at Henry Ford, not because of the car that became the eighth joke of the world, but because upon the witness stand once upon a time he didn't know Benedict Arnold from another of the Arnold family, and because of that famous "peace ship" voyage to Europe while a little scrap was in progress over there.

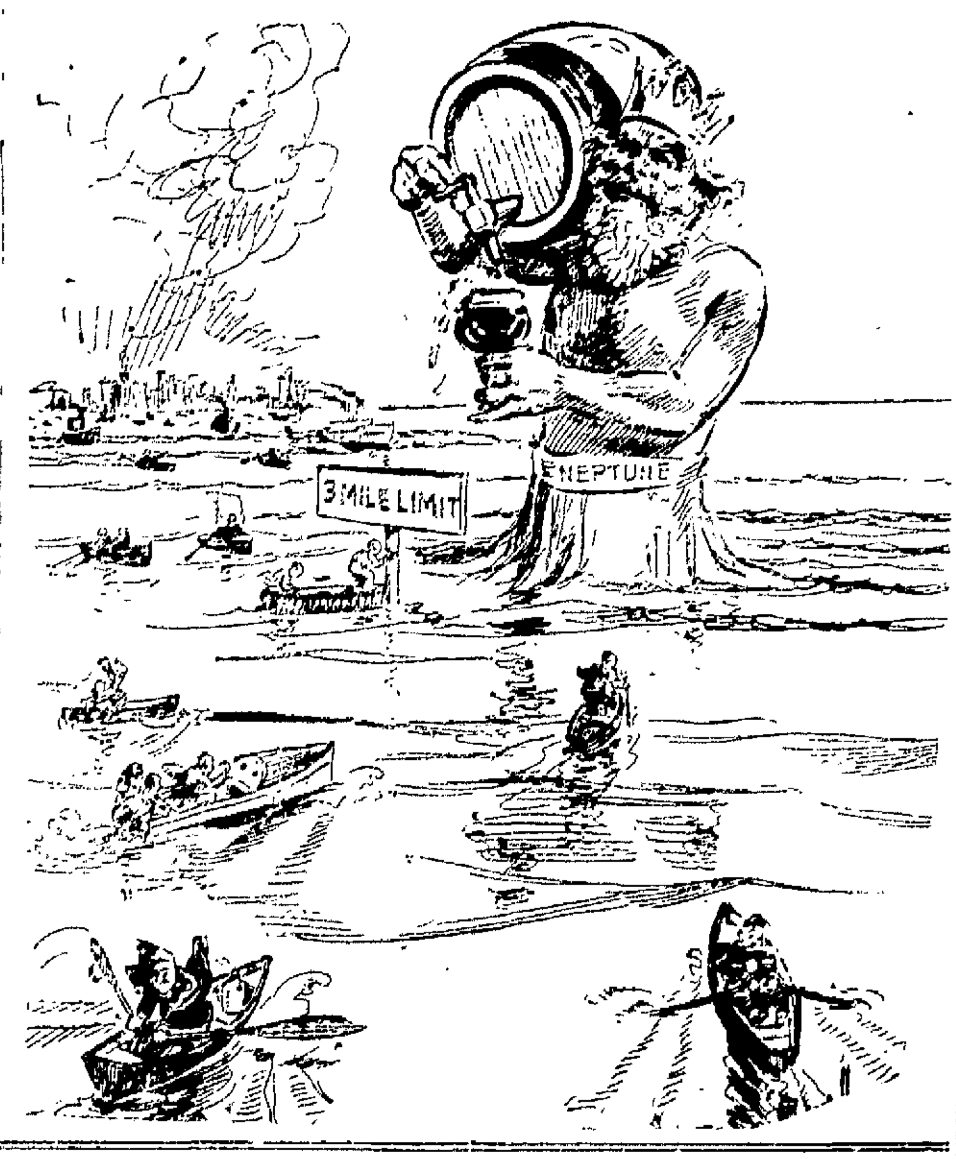
But nobody who is interested in business, finance, industry, is saying anything funny about Mr. Ford. It seemed as though he was in a tight place and the figure of $58,000,000 was set down as his immediate need. Men skilled in finance looked for the elimination of the Fords from the great business they built up.

But just now Mr. Ford is as securely entrenched as ever and has the satisfaction of seeing orders exceed output, despite his rehiring of 10,000 men, in times that are supposed to be not the best. Maybe there will be criticism of his methods, but the point is that he added to the number of employes, increased the output of his factories, increased his sales, found all the money in his business that it was supposed he would have to borrow, and is going strong despite all the talk about business conditions.

Mr. Ford asked for the guiding principle of his conduct and he quoted Hebrews, XI, 1, "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." and he added, "Faith is the thing that makes for reality of hopes. I had faith that the country and the crisis in our industry would right themselves and they are doing it every day."

The moral is: Be a bull on the United States

FATHER NEPTUNE, BOOTLEGGER



THE BOMBING TESTS.

The navy tests which were held off the Atlantic capes terminated July 21 with the bombing and sinking of the ex-German battleship, Ostfriesland. There was considerable good-natured rivalry between the man-o'-war's men and the air service respecting the merits of battleships and aircraft, out of which grew the popular belief that the tests would determine whether or no the battleship must yield to the airship as a warfare weapon and the former, in the near future, be consigned to obsolescence.

But whatever the views of the rival factions, the fact remains that both sides are now pretty well agreed that we can not yet dispense with battleships and that the airship has proved itself to be a valuable auxiliary in the defense of our coasts.

Secretary of War Weeks, remarking on the ideal conditions which prevailed, and the fact that the ships were moored, declared: "This all means that the value of the aeroplane is an offensive weapon was not absolutely proved. The delayed explosion seemed to be the most effective and the development apparently will be in the perfection of bombs that work on the depth charge principle and are able to pierce warships below their heaviest armor line." General Menoher, chief of the army air service, said: "I have always contended that the bomb did constitute a very grave menace to the capital ship and that extraordinary precautions had to be taken to meet the menace." Secretary Denby stated that "scientific conclusions of the utmost value undoubtedly will result from the series of tests," and Assistant Secretary Roosevelt summed it up by saying: "The aeroplane has proved its value as an auxiliary of the navy. They will be extremely useful in the future for information work and in harassing the enemy. I do not believe that they spell the doom of the capital ship. That has been predicted three times in my lifetime. The torpedo, the submarine and the aeroplane all have been hailed as weapons to make dreadnoughts useless. What I think will happen will be steps by the navy to meet the new form of attack. Aviation will have to be developed in conjunction with the fleet."

It seems that the best form of aeroplane attack on battleships would be a combination of direct hits which would demoralize the personnel of the ship, together with shots laid close to the hull for the purpose of sinking. In the case of the Ostfriesland a heavily-armored vessel, these outside shots seemed to be the most effective. Of course, it is to be borne in mind that in all these tests the targets were stationary, and the effect of anti-aircraft gunfire could not be determined. Atmospheric conditions were perfect.

That aeroplanes can terribly harass an approaching enemy fleet was demonstrated to the entire satisfaction of every witness of the tests, and this in itself supplies a powerful plea for perfection of the air service. In addition, it is made apparent that the government should encourage in every way in its power the development of the aeroplane industry in order that America, where the plane was invented, may take its place in the lead, instead of trailing France, Great Britain and Germany as at present."

It's hard to understand some of the paragraphic comment on the fact that the French gave Carpentier a great ovation upon his return home. The French are just as able as any other people to appreciate a good sport.

There are always fellows long on explanations, among them being the fellow who claims that our crime waves are caused by the Liberty bonds we have and the other fellow who claims crime is due to the hootch we haven't.

To be fair to the present congress, it will have to be remembered that it was not reckless expenditure on its part, but rather that of its predecessors, which made the tax burden what it is.

Henry Ford says the way to run the railroads is to reduce rates to encourage business and to reduce railroad forces to promote efficiency, paying those retained higher wages. That will sound good to the consumer and the railroader retained, but how about those let out?

LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

[By Dr. James Ball Naylor.]

FURNISHING THE LARDER.

Housewife, in furnishing supplies to the family larder, in keeping up the family table, are you duly economical?

In meeting the cost of living, are you just using your bare hands—or are you using your head, as well?

Are you saving—as well as slaving?

Are you making your mind help your money, in meeting your food bills?

Do you go to the grocery and meat shop to make your purchases, or do you give orders to the boys who come around—or do you phone your wants to these sources of supplies?

Do you ever go bargain hunting?

In other words, do you select your own supplies of food?

There's a difference.

Be a good buyer, housewife.

Take the time and trouble to inspect the goods for yourself, before you buy.

It will pay you.

Pay cash for what you purchase, whenever you can possibly; and get your money's worth.

Learn to be a shrewd purchaser.

Don't hem and haw and haggle; but don't hesitate to drive a bargain.

Let the following anecdote from the Indianapolis News serve as an illustration of my meaning:

A dignified-looking woman stepped up to an attractive showcase in the meat market, and after she had bought several pieces of meat she asked: "Have you any shin bone that I could use for soup stock?"

"Just the thing," responded the obliging clerk, as he took up a long shin bone and knuckle and balanced it on his left hand.

"What is it worth?" asked the woman

"Just a half dollar," said he.

"It is such a large piece; would you mind cutting it at the joint?"

"Sure I will," he replied.

After cutting off the large knuckle, he again balanced the large shin bone on his hand and said:

"You may have this for forty cents."

The woman looked at the piece for a moment, then at the knuckle—and said:

"Is that piece you cut off worth only ten cents?"

The clerk hesitatingly replied: "Yes, madam."

"All right," said the woman, "I'll take that knuckle."

And she got it.

That housewife knew her business.

TRICKSY CHANCE.

What an elfish sprite is tricksy Chance!

I seldom read the Cleveland Plain Dealer—because I seldom see it. But the other day, on a train, I bought a copy. Why? I don't know. The newsman had a half-dozen or more papers. I had my choice; and I chose the Plain Dealer. And the first thing I did was to turn to the editorial page; and there, in Ted Robinson's column, I found an article in which a writer was taking St. John Ervine to task for asserting that "we have been so smoothed out and conform so strictly to the prevailing styles of apparel that the pople in one town look exactly like those in the next."

And this writer went on to say, "I was brought up in a town of approximately 300 people, and there were enough 'characters' in it to stock half a dozen novels. In fact, our old friend, Doc Naylor, did write a novel, 'Ralph Marlowe,' about them. Conventional was just the thing they were everything else but."

So here are the questions that come to my mind: Why did I buy that particular copy of that particular paper—containing mention of my own novel? And why did I turn immediately to the editorial page—and to Ted Robinson's column—and to that one article?

Chance, you say? Maybe; I don't know.

School of Matrimony
By Ring W. Lardner

He can answer right off the reel this is the 27th of May and just 2 yrs. ago today—was the first time she sat in his lap at the picture show.

To the editor: Every little wile somebody writes a letter to the paper in regards to the divorce evil and what are we going to do to stop it and etc. and the editor prints the letter like he sympathized with the bug that wrote it though as a matter of fact, now that they ain't no more to say about Dempsey and the Greek god, why if it wasn't for the divorce evil, the newspapers would be duller reading than a letter from your wife.

Personly I don't se no harm in a good divorce and by a good divorce I mean one that the details of it is numerous and comical enough to keep it on the first page for at lease 2 wks. but I do think public interest in divorce cases will die out sooner or, later unlest the partys conserned displays a little originality once in a wile like for inst. they might at least pick out a co-respondent that can write a 50 wd. letter without making 49 mistakes in grammor.

However, if divorce is a evil, like so many people claims to think, why I suppose they should be some method found for wiping it out and personly I think this could be done easy enough if it was went at in the right way, namely by starting some kind of a school for boys and gals that wants to get marred and makeing them learn the technical pts.of matrimony and pass a rigid examination in same before they are granted a diploma and license. The safest why of course would be to pass a law vs. anybody marrying the first time, but the country ain't ripe for that yet so the next best thing is the school.

Teachers for a school like this kind would half to be recruited from the ranks of the Benedicks and the course would haf to be laid out on gen. lines, that is on the theory that the perspective bride and groom is going to marry an average party and not a freek.

When a man or lady forms an affectation for a freek they will half to work out their own salvation as you couldn't expect no teacher to learn you how to handle them without a personal knowledge of their special flaws. But at least 99 per cent. of all brides and grooms is either average or just below same, so anybody that has been marred to one or more average husbands or wives for say 5 to 10 yrs. would be qualified for a instructor.

Personly my other dutys would prevent me excepting a teachers position and besides which I maybe might not be eligible as my experience on the matrimonial seas has not been in company with a party that could be called average, and I don't mean by that that she is a freek neither, but any way if my idear for a school was took up in a serious way I would leave the teaching job to others, but I have studied marred life amongst my friends and relatives for a great many yrs. and naturally have got some idears in regards to what every young future bride and groom should ought to know which I will outline them briefly for what they are worth.

He must pertend his ideal breakfast is ½ grape fruit, ½ skinny slice of toast and 1 Misses' size cup of Volstead coffee.

The first thing I would recommend in the course for husbands is a study of diet. The young man must get use to doing without food and try and cultivate a taste for substitutes such as salad, string beans and tapioca pudding. He also must learn to forget that they's such a thing like farm sausage, liver and bacon, ham and eggs and pancakes. He must learn to pertend like his ideal breakfast is ½ grape fruit, ½ skinny slice of toast and 1 misses' size cup of Volstead coffee.

Conversation—Unlest a husband wants to indulge in a life long monologue he must learn to confine his conversation to personaltys. Many a husband has lost their home by trying to learn their wife the Monroe doctrine. The ideal husband limits his remarks to:

"I seen Mildred today and she looked terrible," or "I seen Lizzie this P. M. and she looked terrible."

History—The husband must school himself to remember important dates in history so as when he is asked what day is this, he can answer right off the reel, this is the 27 of May and just 2 yrs. ago today was the first time you let me hold your hand, or the first time you set in my lap at the picture show, or whatever it was that happened.

When To Take Advice.

Last but not lease, a husband should ought to know when to confide in his wife and when not to, as it is a well known fact that a woman's intuition is a whole lot more reliable than a man's judgment and they's many a time when she is libel to give him a hunch that will help him in business or personal affairs.

Like for inst. every woman in the world thought Carpentier would win. So be sure and trust the wife's instinct when some important question comes up like shall I let the cat in or leave her out.

As far as future brides is conserned, they must be taught that nature has so constituted man that they's certain times in the day when he is cross and other times when he is in a good humor. When a bride has learned this she can lay her plans accordingly. The times of day when a man is in good humor is generally always between 2:01 and 2:03 P.M. and the spell sometimes lasts as long as five minutes.

A bride should also learn some way to entertain herself on rare occasions when the husband don't come home. In the old days she use to be able to amuse herself guessing whether he was in a saloon or with another woman. Now days they's no fun guessing as she knows he ain't in a saloon.

One form of entertainment which I have noticed most wifes can find a great deal of harmless enjoyment in same, is moveing the liveing rm. furniture to different parts of the rm. and changeing it back and makeing up her mind if she likes it better here or there. Even if you only got one chair they's almost no limit to the different ways you can pose it.

These is only a few of the things that every boy and gal should learn before they enter the holy state of matrimony but even if they mastered these few rudimunts the papers would have a whole lot less divorce news to print and more rm. for interviews with Edison and Bernard Shaw on what to do for gum boils.

GARIS' BEDTIME STORIES

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE NIGHT BIRD

[BY HOWARD R. GARIS.]

(Copyright 1921, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty, the little rabbit girl, were going through the woods one day, for Bunty wanted a lollypop and the bunny gentleman was taking her to the ten and fifteen cent store to get it.

All of a sudden, as Baby Bunty passed under a pine tree, the thick branches of which made a sort of dark cave, the small rabbit girl cried:

"Oh, look, Uncle Wiggily, there's a brown bag hanging on one of the limbs. We could take that bag to put my lollypop in."

"Maybe that bag is a hornet's nest," spoke Mr. Longears.

Once before Baby Bunty thought she saw a bag hanging in the woods, but when she poked it some hornets flew out and stung her before she had a chance to tell them she didn't mean any harm.

"No, this isn't a hornet's nest," Baby Bunty told Uncle Wiggily. "A hornets' nest is made up of stuff that looks like gray paper. This is brown."

"I'll take a look," said the bunny gentleman, and when he peered at what Baby Bunty had seen Mr. Longears exclaimed:

"That isn't a brown bag hanging in a limb, it is a night bird Baby Bunty."

"What's a night bird," asked the little rabbit girl. "Do you mean a lightning bird or a mosquito?"

"I mean a bat," went on Uncle Wiggily. "Not many birds fly at night, but the bat does, although he isn't exactly a bird, for he has no feathers."

"Oh, he's a mouse!" exclaimed Baby Bunty as she drew nearer the strange creature, who was hanging upside down by means of hooked claws on the ends of his folded wings. He was sound asleep, too, or, at any rate, he had his eyes closed, and didn't open them when Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty talked.

"No, a bat isn't exactly a mouse, though he has the form of one, with the wings of a bird," went on the bunny gentleman. "I think we can best call him a night bird. Come away Baby Bunty and let the bat sleep."

"Why does he want to sleep in the day time?" inquired Bunty. "I should think he'd want to play in the day time and sleep at night."

"It is the nature of bats to sleep in the day time and fly about at night catching birds that would bite little rabbit girls," exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "Bats can see in the dark even better than owls. Come away and let the night bird sleep."

He was sound asleep

"Thank you for not bothering me, Uncle Wiggily," said the sleepy voice of the bat. And then the strange creature, which was half bird and half mouse, folded its skinny wings, without any feathers, closer around himself, and kept on sleeping.

"When I come back I'll give the bat night bird some of my lollypop, if he's awake," said Bunty.

But when she and Uncle Wiggily hopped through the woods again the bat was still asleep. Baby Bunty put a piece of her lollypop on the limb beside the strange creature and left him there in peace and quiet.

"Will he wake up in the night and fly around?" asked the little rabbit girl.

"Yes, he'll fly like the night bird he is," said Uncle Wiggily.

That night, in the hollow stump bungalow, where Baby Bunty was visiting for a few days, there was trouble. And, sad to tell, it was Uncle Wiggily who was ill.

Whether the old rabbit gentleman had eaten too much of Baby Bunty's lollypop, or perhaps, not enough, I can't say. Anyhow, Uncle Wiggily was suddenly seized with terrible pains.

"I guess you'll have to telephone for Dr. Possum," groaned Uncle Wiggily, when the hot water bottle, which Nurse Jane gave him, did no good.

"I'll telephone," offered Baby Bunty. But when she tried to, the telephone was broken, and they couldn't talk to Dr. Possum to tell him to come.

"I'm afraid to go through the dark woods at night to get him," said Nurse Jane. "I'd be afraid even with Baby Bunty."

"And I wouldn't let you go off in the woods at night even to get me a doctor," said Uncle Wiggily. "I can stand it until morning."

But he grew worse and worse, and needed Dr. Possum very much. Nurse Jane didn't know what to do, but, all of a sudden there was a fluttering of wings, and along flew the bat. The night bird learned what the trouble was and said:

"I'll fly and get Dr. Possum. I'm not afraid in the dark. I'd just love to do something for Uncle Wiggily."

Through the dark forest flew the bat, to Dr. Possum's house, soon bringing him to Uncle Wiggily, and, in a little while the bunny's pain was stopped by medicine. And the bat was thanked very much as he silently flew away on his velvety wings.

ABOUT 100 ATTEND BETHLEHEM GRANGE

When Program Is Rendered and Mock Wedding Held.

About 100 were in attendance at the meeting of Bethlehem grange Friday evening, in the grange hall two miles northwest of Waldo. The program consisted of recitations by Ruth Fogle, Marie Schwaderer, Jane Waddell, Edward Schwaderer, Pauline Kaelber, Walter and Ralph Bender, Dorothy Bensler, Woodrow Kaelber.

Three dialogues, "A Test of Courage," "What Became of the False Teeth," and "Burglers and Ghosts" were given by the children and songs were given by Woodrow Kaelber, Elnora and Marie Bender, Marie and Edward Schwaderer. Miss Mildred Hecker contributed a piano number. A mock wedding was a feature of the entertainment and the program closed with a talk by Rev. Frank Lahr, of Whetstone grange. The girls drill team will meet August 5 at the hall for practice.

EVEN STEAL PENS IN LOBBY AT POSTOFFICE

"First Come, First Served," Seems To Be Motto.

"First come, first served," has been an adage handed down to many a Marionite along with a well thumbed copy of Aesop's fables.

But it works here!

Many kicks are often made at the postoffice about the lack of pens, one pen to a desk where eight or ten people can be accommodated.

But it's like this—"the early bird catches the worm" and even though the pens are worth approximately one-tenth of a cent, busybodies carry them off religiously every day, and never, never bring them back.

VEIOCK ON SPORTS

New York, July 30.—France's wonder girl of the tennis courts soon will be seen in action on this side of the Atlantic.

Mlle. Suzane Lenglen, in the woman's tennis singles championship, was scheduled to sail from France, today, to compete in our national championships and a series of exhibition match for the benefit of devastated France.

The coming of Mlle Lenglen is of unusual interest. Her mission on this side of the pond is as big as was that of Georges Carpentier.

Carpentier came to this country to attempt to conquer one opponent in sport. Mlle Lenglen comes to compete against a score of the best women tennis players in this country and her task will not be light by any means.

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, holder of the national singles championship, is expected to head the list of American stars who will dispute Mlle. Lenglen's attempts to win the title. Mrs. Mallory is still in Europe, but is expected to return here in plenty of time for the women's national championship tourney at Forest Hills, August 15.

In addition there will be Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, Miss Mary Browne and Miss Helen Wills, youthful San Francisco star; Miss Edith Signourney, Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, and Mrs. Benjamin E. Cole, of Boston; Miss Eleanor Goss and Miss Helen Pollak, of New York; Miss Carinne Gould, of St. Louis and Miss Bobbie Esch, of Cleveland. Mrs. Cole recently won the national clay courts title at Buffalo. Mrs. George W. Wightman, of Boston, now on the Pacific coast, may come east in time for the tournament, also. This list of American women players is looked upon as a class of entrants in the tourney at Forest Hills and the mixed doubles in Boston, August 22, in which Mlle. Lenglen plans to compete.

The French player is scheduled to make her first appearance at Greenwich, Connecticut and will take part in ten exhibition matches in various cities, under the auspices of the American committee for devastated France and the United States Lawn Tennis association.

FARMER'S WIFE WORKS HARD ALL THE TIME

But She Buys Store Bread and Store Cake.

Shh! Farmer's wives in Marion county are actually serving "store bread" on their tables.

The horrible truth has been noised about town for several weeks, but no facts were obtainable until within the past few days.

"Store cake" has also been found in the country districts and no apology coming from the housewife. For generations "home cooking" has been synonymous with the term of farmer's wife. But like their city sisters they have repudiated the heritage of many generations.

That family institution "canning time," when the women on the farms picked berries and fruits all morning, canned them all afternoon and raised a family of eight children also has gone out of style.

The flivver, according to those who know, has been responsible for this great change. Work on the farm is necessarily heavy for the wife with no help, and maids are not found on farms nowadays.

As a result little John is rushed off to town about an hour before dinner with orders to get a can of salmon, store bread, cake and cookies and the farmer's wife gets meals with a can-opener, too.

MOTOR GYPSYING IS FREE AND EASY

Number Have Been Seen in Marion This Summer.

"Motor gypsying" is becoming popular here according to automobile dealers of Marion. They are receiving orders for special "bungalow bodies" that fit on all kind of automobiles.

The state highways are filled with these odd cars, full of people perhaps "gipsying" it from coast to coast at a total cost of the gasolene it takes to operate the machine, and the food they buy from the farmers.

Several go through Marion every week.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl H. Sells, of south Vine street, were in Springfield Friday attending the funeral of Mrs. Sells' cousin, John D. Gast. He was buried in the cemetery there.

Mr. Gast was widely known in this vicinity, having been a former resident of Prospect and having played with a local band at one time. He was fifty-one years of age and a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Levi Gast, of Prospect. Mr. Gast died Tuesday night in a Springfield hospital following an operation the week before on one of his lungs, which had become infected as the result of influenza.

Mr. Gast is survived by his widow and three sons, Merle, Earl and Harold, all of Springfield. He was a builder of pipe organs and a talented musician.

The Daily Plain Dealer is now 2¢

Beginning Monday, August 1st

The price of The Daily Plain Dealer will be reduced to 2 cents per copy.

During the period of the war, and for many months thereafter, wages, print paper and all other elements of cost entering into the making of a newspaper advanced to a degree that made a 3-cent price imperative. While there has been no reduction in wages and many other costs of newspaper making, there has been a reduction in print paper prices, and The Plain Dealer therefore passes the benefit of this reduction on to its readers.

This Reduction in Price of The Daily Plain Dealer to 2 cents per copy is made without curtailing in any degree the quality or quantity of the news and editorial service now rendered. Rather, The Plain Dealer hopes to increase the scope and usefulness of its present city, state, national and foreign service.

Opportunity is taken herewith by The Plain Dealer to express to its readers our thorough appreciation of their loyal support during the period when conditions made the 3-cent price necessary.

INDEPENDENCE OF PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

Is Opposed in Coming Report of General Wood.

Washington, July 30. — Independence of the Philippines will not be recommended at this time by the mission headed by Major General Leonard Wood, which was sent to the islands to investigate conditions there and to propose changes.

It is known that a preliminary report has been received by President Harding from General Wood and Colonel Cameron Forbes, former governor general of the Philippines, who is assisting in the investigation. Both officers are convinced that the islands should not be given their independence now.

When the final report is filed, probably more than a month from now, important changes will be recommended, but in no event will they include the independence which the present majority party in the islands, headed by Manuel Quezon, has been demanding of the United States.

Robert E. Burke Dead.

Chicago, July 30.—Robert Emmett Burke, widely known Democratic politician and candidate of that party for United States senator from Illinois at the last general election, died at a hospital of diabetes. Burke was the only delegate to the Democratic national convention at St. Louis who voted against the renomination of Woodrow Wilson for the presidency.

Algebra Eliminated.

Columbus, July 30.—No longer is algebra to block the way to a high school or college career in Ohio. High schools still will be required to offer it to pupils, but pupils will not be required to take it.

MAD STEER RUNS AMUCK: MAN IS SERIOUSLY HURT

A. T. Thompson, a Prospect Township Farmer, Victim.

PARTLY DISEMBOWELED, BROUGHT TO HOSPITAL

Animal Held at Prospect for Observation Attacks Others.

A. T. Thompson, aged about sixty years, who resides about three miles northeast of Prospect, is in a very serious condition at the City hospital, having been gored by a mad steer at Prospect this morning while driving fifteen head of cattle to the Hocking Valley stockyards.

As Thompson and the men assisting him drove the cattle into the stockyards one of the animals, apparently affected by the heat, became ferocious and started after the men. Its first victim was Frank Butz, who was thrown down and had his clothes torn, but managed to escape injury.

The animal then took after Mr. Thompson, who, having only one arm, could not get away. A gash about six inches long was torn in the left side of the man's abdomen, partly disemboweling him. He was then thrown over the fence.

Brought to Hospital.

The injured man was rushed to the hospital, where he was operated on shortly after his arrival there.

Mrs. John Roush was driven in the house from her porch, and Charles Fleming, who was painting, was forced to seek protection behind a porch railing when the animal ran into the yards while being driven to the stockpens. It is being held at the stockyards for observation.

CORN CROP WILL BE A FAILURE MANY PLACES

Even with Favorable Weather Crop Will Be Light.

Corn prospects are very low in the sections of the state which had heavy rains in May and early June and which have not received rain in any amount since, according to reports received from correspondents by C. J. West, agricultural statistician. Many fields will be a total failure and all fields have been seriously injured. The Hocking valley and some of the northern and western counties have been liberally supplied with rian with the result that prospects there are from fair to good.

In Paulding, Van Wert, Greene, Fayette, Pickaway, Clinton and other counties of the western and central parts of the state, corn is tasseling out at a height of from three to five feet lower than is usual. The early corn can not ear without rain. It is possible, however, for much of the late corn and for some of the early planted corn to ear better than present appearances indicate provided the rainfall is ample during the next few weeks.

The rains of the last six weeks in Ohio have been local in character so that comparatively narrow sections in Williams, Fulton, Henry and other counties of the northwestern part of the state show good corn prospects while within a few miles distance corn is suffering from the drouth. Fairfield, Hocking, Morgan and some other southeastern counties show good prospects for corn and the same is true in the oats crop throughout the state.

Reports are general of a failure in the oats crop throughout the state. The hot dry weather following the earlier heavy rains apparently accounts for the poor yields and low quality of the grain. Weights of eighteen to twenty-two pounds per measured bushel are common. Many fields are not worth cutting though but few have not been cut. Yields run from ten to thirty bushels per acre with very rarely a report of forty bushels.

The outstanding feature of the week has been the continued dry weather which is rapidly cutting down the prospects of all crops.

Oats threshing out very poor quality and from one-fourth to one-half of the usual yield per acre.

Threshing is well along and yields are poor in wheat.

THIRTEEN GALLONS OF WHISKY INTO SEWER

State Prohibition Officer Witness to Pouring Process.

While a number of visitors around police station looked on with parched throats, over thirteen gallons of corn whisky seized from T. J. Murphy, Friday morning, were poured into the sewer. William F. Dooley, a state prohibition officer, witnessed the performance and this disposition of the liquor will be made in his report.

THE SICK

Paul, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan, of Bryant street, is seriously ill of cholera infantum.

Miss Hazel Covault, stenographer in the office of the sheriff, was taken to her home, Friday, and this morning was taken to the City hospital suffering from an attack of acute appendicitis.

EXPLOSION IN LANTERN CAUSES $15,000 FIRE

Charles H. Allen, Near LaRue, Loses Big Barn.

EIGHT PEOPLE RESPOND TO TELEPHONE ALARM

Through Their Aid the Allen Home Is Saved from Destruction by Fire.

LaRue, O., July 30.—[Special.]—The large barn on the farm of Charles H. Allen, residing two miles southwest of here, was destroyed by fire this morning at 1:30 o'clock. A large cow straw shed, farm implements, and two blooded hogs were also burned.

The fire was caused from the explosion of oil in a lantern which Mr. Allen had taken to the barn, where he went to unloosen a calf which had become fastened in the manger.

Mr. Allen was unable to put out the fire and sent in an alarm to the night telephone operator, Miss Hazel Shuster, who called the neighbors. About eighty men responded. With the help of the men and the protection of a row of trees between the barn and house, the house was saved.

The loss is estimated at about $15,000 and is partially covered by insurance.

IN COMMON PLEAS

Denial Is Entered.

Denial that the driver of its truck was negligent and a charge that the plaintiff's own negligence contributed to his injuries are contained in the answer of the defendant to the amended petition of the plaintiff filed in the common pleas court this morning in the $10,200 damage suit of Dean Bastain, by his next friend, Bert A. Bastain, against the Standard Oil company of Ohio. The answer was filed through Niman, Grossman, Burns & Holliday, of Cleveland.

Bastain is suing for damages resulting from an accident on Oak street, July 7, 1920 when a Standard Oil truck and a motorcycle he was riding collided. In its answer, the defendant company charges the plaintiff was driving at a speed of twenty-five miles an hour and attempted to drive in front of the truck as it was turning into a driveway.

Claims Are Set Up.

Answers and cross-petitions of the King Mill Works company, the H. C. King Lumber company and the Millard Hunt company were filed in the common pleas court Friday afternoon in the foreclosure suit of Marion Neal against Ralph R. Baker and others. The pleadings were filed through Carhart & Warner.

In each of the answers the defendants admit Ralph R. and Lulu M. Baker are owners of the property in question. In the cross-petition each sets up a claim for money for furnishing building materials. The King Mill Works company asks that its lien and that of the Millard Hunt company be declared first liens, that they be foreclosed and the premises sold if Ralph R. Baker and Lulu M. Baker are found guilty to be in default of payment of the amounts due the answering defendants, and the proceeds be applied to the payment of the debt. Judgment for $107.83 is asked by the King Mill Works company, $323.12 by the H. C. King Lumber company and $204.07 by the Millard Hunt company.
